SOCIAL CORNER POEMS.

HIS NAME IS LOVE.

Because in a day of my days to come There waiteth a grief to be; Shall my heart grow faint, and my lips be dumb,
In this day that is bright for me?
Because of a subtle sense of pain, Like a pulse-beat, throbbing through The bliss of my thought, shall I dare refrain From delight in the pure and true?
In the harvest fields shall I cease to gleam, Shall the bloom of the spring have faded, Shall I veil mine eyes to the noontide sheen, Since the dew of the morn hath dried?
Nay, phantom ill with the warning baid, Nay, ghoul of the weary past; Serene as in armor of faith I stand, I may not hold me fast.

Your shadows across my sun may fall, But as bright the sun shall shine;
For I walk in a light, ye cannot pall,
The light of the King Divine.
And whatever He sends from day to day, I am sure that His name is Love;
And He never will let me lose my way To my rest in His home above.
—Margaret E. Sangster.

IT DOESN'T COST MONEY.
It doesn't cost money, as many suppose.
To have a good time on this earth:
The best of its pleasures are free unto those Who know how to value their worth.

The sweetest music the birds to us sing,
The loveliest flowers grow wild; The best of drinks gushes out of the spring—
All free to man, woman and child.
No money can purchase, no artist can paint,
Such pleasures as nature supplies.
Forever, all over, to sinner and saint,
Who use to advantage their eyes.

Kind words and glad looks and smiles cheer and brave Cost nothing—no, nothing at all.
And yet all the wealth Monte-Cristo could say
Can make no such pleasure brave.
To back in the sunlight, to breathe the pure air, Honest toil, the enjoyment of health, Sweet slumber refreshing—these pleasures we share, Without any portion of wealth.

Communion with friends that are tried, Trust and love,
To love and to be loved for love's sake—
In fact all that makes life happy and long,
Are free to whoever will take.

OLD KING ALCOHOL.

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: In 1923 ruin will not be plenty.
We will not mind the weather, but will all march together and shout for the downfall of old King Alcohol. It poisons the blood of our young men.
If it was not for that it might have been a different world; and I've no doubt when someone finds it out, children will not be crying for bread when old King Alcohol is dead.

Congress right quick to ratify, and my woman it will gratify to have her husband sober and content and not bring home a bottle of rum. He will come home with smiles and money, and the drunkards and their kind funny such a thing has come to pass.
The people will find out soon prison doors will close for good if Woodrow only would say "Bully in a quick oven the dirty rot," and get it what the kaiser got and farewell the drunken set!

If we live to see the day, not so far away, we'll sing and shout and march ahead, because old King Alcohol is dead!
If you have a kind old mother in the old home far away, don't give her a chance to worry, but send her word today that you have taken the pledge forever, and God help you, son, to keep it.

SQUASH BISCUIT.

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: I have long enjoyed reading the letters in The Bulletin, but realized more enjoyment and pleasure last week when I met with the letters at the Buckingham Memorial in Norwich.
As they were nearly all strangers to me, only the Editor and I were invited.
And Aunt Mary was the only one I knew. I have known Aunt Mary for years, ever since she located in Plainfield, when I was quite a small child.
We were invited to her home to a Sunday school picnic, and we did have a good time, just as do the Social Corner Sisters when they have their picnics with Aunt Mary.

As we have to conserve on sugar, am sending a recipe for Squash Biscuit—One quart mince meat, one pinch salt, one-half cup milk, three tablespoons of melted shortening, one teaspoon soda, two of cream tartar and flour enough to drop a drop cake. Bake in a quick oven.
Bake squash-dish so it will not be so meat.

Best wishes.
COMFORT.

Congressional garden seeds are distributed for the purpose of raising prose.

can make a wheelbarrow as well as he can write a letter.
He knows Connecticut, although he does not live in it, but upon ancestral rights in a neighboring state, with a wooded hill 800 feet high back of his house, and a range of mountains 2,000 feet high in front of it, in a snug little valley, where the sun goes down at 5 p. m. this time of year, where the snow gets three feet deep and the temperature lingers for weeks about zero or 35 degrees below in midwinter. Has a mystery.
You will notice he never tells you how to run your farm, but how he runs his. He gambles as well as writes with nature, and has many failures as anyone, but he prefers to talk about his successes. He isn't ambitious and this is why he is a good teacher, but he has no idea he desires to take any students.

He has a shepherd dog named Major, and a growing pig in the pen named Hindenberg—about 81 to kill.
This may help you to judge somewhat of his Americanism.
His only son is good to know—he will not flatter you and you cannot flatter him. He is all wool and a yard wide, perpendicular as the mountains around him and as square as a brick.
He evidently believes if you grow what the people want as they want it they will gladly pay all it is worth.
This is all I feel free to say to Farmer's Wife on the subject. To learn more she will have to apply at headquarters.
OLD SOL.

FOR THE MEDICINE CHEST.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: As there is no one so much as I just at present and more or less in winter, it is a good plan to have a medicine chest in the house, so one will know where to put and find a remedy needed. It may save much suffering and avoid calling in the doctor.
In case of poison medicine, always put a quart jar in center of box or a little toy bell tied to the neck of the bottle will be a safeguard so no mistake can be made in the dark.
Keep the chest out of the reach of children.

A few of the things to have on hand: Some adhesive plaster or liquid plaster for cuts or wounds; iodine will answer for the same purpose; a small roll of
